2010: Houston Academy of Irish Dance.

Calgary's longest-established Irish dance school updated their identity and required an all-new website to match. Created various spec mockups before deciding on a final product, which was built to integrate with a photo gallery, calendar, and used WordPress as a content management backend.

2010: I Am Brett John.

Brett John is a wedding, sports and event photographer based in Canberra, Australia. He required an updated website with a fresh new look. Several mockups were created prior to deciding upon the finished product, which was designed to be lightweight and professional.
